

TEXAS CHARTER SCHOOLS DELIVER ON THEIR PROMISE

In 1995, a bipartisan group of state lawmakers made a promise to Texas children and families to create a new kind of public school—a charter school—that would improve academic outcomes for all children, regardless of whether they attended a “new” school or a traditional ISD.

Public charter schools are improving academic outcomes for ALL children.

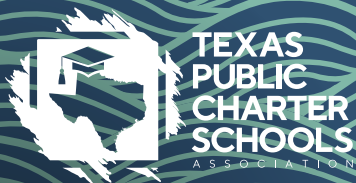

Public charter schools are preparing the workforce of the future.

Public charter schools complement ISDs and improve the public education system.

As collaboration between charter schools and ISDs continues to increase, families across Texas have greater choices and options for an education that meets their needs. Charter students are thriving, and so are more students who stay in their assigned district school. This is great news for students, their families, and our communities.

1. Based on 2012 to 2019 data from the Texas Success Initiative as reported on the Texas Academic Performance Report. 2. Based on 2016 to 2019 data from the Texas Success Initiative as reported on the Texas Academic Performance Report. 3. Public Education Information Management System, Texas Education Agency. 4. 2018-19 State Academic Accountability Ratings, Texas Education Agency.

25 YEARS OF CHARTER SCHOOLS IN TEXAS

Learn more at TXcharterschools.org/25thAnniversary